

Electra

Electra has a very soft taste and a delicate fruit-floral aroma. We call it “Electra” because of the tingly electric like sensation on the end of the tongue. Its softness, lightness and ethereal fragrance evokes a picture of angelic innocence. Los Angeles artist Ardison Phillips chose to represent these qualities with an angel, painted in the manner of Chagall.

Electra’s delicate fruit-floral fragrance was achieved by fermenting Orange Muscat grapes at a low temperature for over 2 months. Its light spritz is the result of bottling quickly at a very low temperature, thus retaining a considerable amount of natural carbonation.

Because Electra seems to go with blue skies and fresh air, we like to describe it as a “picnic wine”. We find it to be an excellent accompaniment to salads, spicy foods, and sweets.
